

Array based list is a much better option than linked list, if the fixed size is not crucial. With fixed values in array list we can search much faster. and in linked list values are stored in RAM which makes it slower than array. In our problem the code lines are lengthy due to different nodes, but in array list we have only array.